

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for first-hand home/property surveillance includes an audio visual remote/phone. The audio visual remote/phone includes a computer (located inside said property) which works in conjunction with a motion sensor and/or buzzer which activates the mounted camera to start recording picture data and at the same time alerts and sends a signal to dial the audio visual remote or phone (carried on person) the mounted camera transmits the visual to the remote or phone and a microphone/speaker is on location thus having first-hand audio and visual surveillance with the capability to converse.